

Gina Hugo

We should be moving away from discharge into surface waters even with limits this poses a risk through bio accumulation and alters hydrology in an unnatural way. In no way should we as the state of 10,000 lakes (we know it is way more) be tolerating even "lower" limits - we should be requiring a trend to eliminate PFAS and looking for ways to heal what is already impaired.