

Alana Howey

We must protect Minnesota's most precious resource- water. In line with that we also need to start honoring our treaties with the Anishanabe relatives by making the growth of wild rice sustainable into the future. The record of pollution and accidents is clear that it is not safe to mine in these sensitive areas.