

Ashley Johnson

U.S. Steel has strong environmental policies that are honored. They are also overlooked by MSHA. Mining provides opportunities to create essential products the whole world uses. It also provides families with careers. Sub-contractors rely on work from the mines for maintenance and are held to high standards. I fully support continuing mining. We have done it for decades safely. I stand strong that U.S. Steel will continue to maintain their environmental policies to the highest capacity.