

Greg Shirley

We don't need more mega dairy farms. They hurt our rural communities. They don't buy local, they make it harder for small farmers to compete and they damage the environment. Where does all that methane and manure end up? Plus they use massive amounts fertilizer and other chemicals to grow the feed for these cattle.

We need to have smaller farms using regenerative ag to get our farm ecology back in balance. This expansion will cause massive amounts of damage instead.