

Julie Greenwood

After reading through many comments, it appears that Riverview is a responsible corporation. That being said most of the positive comments are also from people who will directly or indirectly benefit from this expansion. My biggest concern is the environmental impact to the area, primarily water quality. The health and welfare of livestock, and the impact on smaller farms is also a concern. An EIS is definitely needed for a project of this size.