

Troy Metzger

After reviewing the comprehensive Environmental Assessment Worksheet for the proposed West River Dairy Expansion, I am writing to support this project and am confident that the EAW document provides a thorough and well-supported analysis of the project's potential impacts. The level of detail already presented demonstrates that key environmental considerations have been carefully evaluated, and the information is more than sufficient to guide responsible permitting decisions. This expansion project represents an important opportunity for economic growth, job creation, and long-term investment in Minnesota and the EAW, and just as important Riverview's past performance and integrity, clearly show that it can move forward responsibly working within this appropriate and well-understood regulatory framework.