

Ah-li Monahan

I am very concerned about the proposed dairy in the area near Morris, Minnesota. It is more than double the animal units of the next largest dairy operation in Minnesota. As such, it risks more harm to the area than our current CAFOs. It would be located near several sensitive wildlife areas where manure could do a lot of harm. The company already has a track record of harmful spills in other states. The company is also asking for a permit to use almost as much water as the nearby city.

With such a large operation, Riverview, LLP must be required to submit a full EIS, and the EPA needs to do an in-depth examination before deciding on whether to issue a permit.

Thank you for your consideration.
