

Thomas Hoch

This project expansion is an environmental disaster in the making. What we SHOULD be focused on is how to transition dairy away from operations such as these to one that more appropriately uses agriculture. Plant-based products could not only protect our environment but would eliminate the extreme animal cruelty inherent in these operations. Just take a look at their website: <https://riverviewllp.com/> . Animals placed on a merry-go-round for their entire adult lives? Really? And the public is left to pick up the pieces from these disastrous CAFOs.