

Anthony Anker

I am writing in strong support of the West River Dairy Expansion. Having worked alongside Riverview at several locations as a custom manure applicator, I have seen firsthand the high standards they hold themselves and their partners to — standards that consistently exceed what state regulations require.

Every Riverview site I have worked at has been clean, well-organized, and professionally managed. Their commitment to environmental stewardship is evident in every aspect of their operations, from how they handle manure application to how they engage with the surrounding community. They take seriously their responsibility to local infrastructure and invest in maintaining and improving it. Riverview has also been a genuine benefit to local farmers. By creating reliable markets for crops and providing quality manure to improve soil health and fertility, they strengthen the agricultural community as a whole. Having pumped for both Riverview and other dairies, I can say with confidence that Riverview sets the bar for how a dairy operation should be run.

Beyond agriculture, this expansion will bring meaningful economic opportunity to rural Minnesota — a region where attracting committed, community-minded businesses is no small challenge.

Riverview has a proven track record of donating to local causes and investing in the communities where they operate.

I am proud to live and work in a community with Riverview and wholeheartedly support the expansion of West River Dairy.

Sincerely,

Anthony Anker