

Marz Beckman

No project of significant size such as this should be allowed in a community without an environmental impact study. We can destroy the environment easily but we can't restore it without a great deal of money. Do the right thing.