Hello MPCA Staff and Commissioners,

I farmed for 15 years near Kenyon, MN. In my experience even a small confinement dairy can pollute the air within 2 miles of the facility, and the water many miles downstream. It is extremely important as we look at the future of our beautiful state to protect the water and air quality that we have, and improve both. Confinement dairy's are not good for rivers, streams, human health or animal health, or our agricultural economy. In order to learn more about exactly how our natural resources will be affected we must have an EIS completed as described in MN Rules 4410.2300.

Sincerely,

Melissa Driscoll
