

Lori Hinrichsen

Water depletion could impact surrounding consumers. The concentration of manure, if not managed properly, could lead to an environmental disaster. Diversification of locations and smaller dairy farms would be the most environmentally sustainable solution.