I would like comment in favor of Riverviews expansion. I do not live near a current Riverview dairy but I have seen there operation and the benefit it provides for the local community and economy.

Riverview provides a big economic booster for areas they operate in bringing in new crops and markets for area farmers. In return these farmers use manure replacing there need for synthetic fertilizers. I believe this I a "win-win" situation for everybody involved. I agree that we should try and save smaller family dairy's but that has become simply not viable in today's economy and I feel like the positives for this expansion out weight negatives
