My name is Kaleb Koehl, and I have lived in Stevens County for more than 26 years. During that time, I have seen firsthand the positive impact that Riverview LLP has had on our local community.

Riverview works closely with local farmers to produce the silage and other crops needed to feed their herds, helping keep agricultural production and economic activity within our region. They operate well-managed and clean facilities and have consistently demonstrated that they take their operational and environmental responsibilities seriously.

This proposed expansion would also provide meaningful benefits to our rural communities by supporting local jobs and helping attract and retain families in our small towns and schools.

In addition to Riverview's commitment to the local community, their proposed plan reflects a strong focus on environmental stewardship. Their approach to water quantity management, land stewardship, and manure handling practices demonstrates a clear commitment to responsible resource management. Through these practices, Riverview is prioritizing long-term land stewardship to ensure cropland remains productive for future generations.

For these reasons, I respectfully support the expansion permit for West River Dairy and ask the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency to approve the expansion permit.

Thank you
