

JENNIFER Love

Farming cows is a huge contributor to global warming and environmental damage. Please do not expand, even with the most up to date farming practices, this is not good for our climate as a whole nor for the protected and already struggling Pomme de Terre watershed.