Hello. I feel NO person or company should have this many animals, for many reasons. Impact of land around it. Animal safety due to equipment failure or help issues. I own land near the project both north (Alberta) and to the south (south of Oliver lake), not close but very possible having an impact. There are many USFWS properties nearby as well. This does nothing to help locals either. They have a track record of manure spills. I really believe a project of this size needs EIS study done. I actually believe they may have too many cows already. Jeff Borchert.
