

Sally Fernholz

Expansion makes no sense considering the environmental consequences and future health of the environment. Rural area resources such as water and man power are finite and cannot be taken for financial gain.