

Nathan Compart

Minnesota's water goes 3 different directions, we are the headwaters for a very large portion of the continent. We NEED to look at regulating CAFO's at smaller numbers than this. It is not up to us to pay the environmental costs as a state so that a few people can use the land to extract wealth. Until we do better with our water No one downstream from us can do better with their's.