

David Carman

As a life-long trout fisherman with three toddler-aged grandchildren, I can live with less road salt on the roads and streets of Duluth in order to preserve and improve the sensitive fish populations of Duluth, which are already under considerable strain from global climate change and impervious surface warm water runoff..