

Robert Finley

A project of this nature absolutely requires an Environmental Impact Statement (EIS). Not requiring one makes a mockery of all that has been done previously to protect our land and water resources from degradation.