

Francis Casey

I've toured Riverview facilities and am amazed at the strong environmental stewardship from water protection to nutrient management plans. I'm a soil scientist and know the value of manure and the organic matter it adds to soil to build nutrition and soil health. The animals are very well treated, extremely healthy and happy. There are veterinarians and highly skilled workers taking care of the animals all day. The facilities were also very clean and in the heart of the operations there was no bad odors. This business cares for the community and as industry and revenue to the state.