If it does not raise our property taxes, I am all for it. There are a lot of elderly who are getting taxed out of their homes and so many residents that are already living paycheck to paycheck in a hard enough economy. All the residents of Hibbing deserve a break from the outlandish decisions the city keeps forcing us into. How much will this cost, what do you plan on doing with the property, can anything be done with it? These are the things that the residents need to know as well.
