Dear New Mexico Environmental Improvement Board,

On behalf of Western Resource Advocates' supporters across New Mexico and beyond, we want to thank you for your ongoing work discussing options to advance transportation electrification in New Mexico.

Attached is a list of 41 New Mexico residents who added their name in support of the Low-Emission Vehicle (LEV) and Zero-Emission Vehicle (ZEV) standards being considered on May 4-6.

Each of these signatures is being provided from the individual supporter, and not on behalf of Western Resource Advocates.

Our supporters look forward to your continued commitment to increasing electric vehicle adoption in New Mexico.

Thank you,

Joan Moses

To the New Mexico Environmental Improvement Board:

Across our state, fossil-fueled vehicles contribute to unhealthy air pollution and the effects of climate change that we experience every day, from prolonged drought to heatwaves and more intense wildfires. Expanding electric vehicle use across New Mexico can help act on climate change and open new doors to economic opportunities for New Mexicans.

Pollution from fossil-fueled vehicles makes up 14% of the carbon pollution that harms New Mexico's air and climate. Adopting clean-vehicle standards will help reduce that pollution and protect New Mexicans' health, lower the costs of owning an electric vehicle, and ensure fleets of vehicles bought for public service don't add to greenhouse gas emissions.

New Mexico took an important step forward last June when the New Mexico Environment Department and Albuquerque Environmental Health Department announced a path for adopting Clean Car standards. The proposed Low-Emission Vehicle (LEV) and Zero-Emission Vehicle (ZEV) standards being considered May 4-6 by the New Mexico Environmental Improvement Board will be critical for New Mexico to reach its bold climate goals.

Join us in thanking the New Mexico Environmental Improvement Board for considering adopting Clean Car standards for our state, and let them know you support continued momentum to accelerate electric vehicle adoption across New Mexico.
