

Emily Sadow

The rivers of New Mexico are facing unprecedented pressure from ski areas, population growth, new development, climate change, and extreme drought, among other issues. They need all the protection they can get to survive these impacts. Countless people and communities depend on these waterways as their lifeline. Please do what you can to help protect these vital rivers and streams.

With Respect,
Emily Sadow