To whom it may concern: New Mexico is blessed with a tremendous amount of open land. It is hard for me to believe that there is no other place to build a batch plant other than a residential area! People have worked very hard to be able to live in a beautiful area, with clean air and, though water is scarce, unpolluted water. They deserve to keep their lives free from unnecessary pollution, not to mention their property values will plummet! No batch plant in or near a residential area!!! What on earth are you thinking!!!
