

Becky Schreiber

Electric cars are potentially more damaging to the environment than combustion engine. The technology is not there yet. Battery disposal problems, fire issues, and recharging issues. We're not there yet.