On October 4th, 2023, I attended one of the public workshops on New Mexico's proposed Advanced Clean Cars and Advanced Clean Trucks Rules and learned a great deal from state government and industry officials about these rules. While I would be open to some edits, as a citizen of New Mexico, I am supportive of the direction of these rules. These proposed transportation sector policies will ensure the State of New Mexico and its people quickly reduce greenhouse gas emissions produced by the state's transportation sector.
