

James Hampton

I don't understand why the government/governor should decide what vehicle I have access to. In the area I live in EV vehicles are not practical due to the distance and type of work that is needed. Our current electricity infrastructure will not handle the load for charging EV's. The government wants us to reduce emissions but producing EV has more effect on the environment than the natural resources that we use at this current time. We can all work together on a better environment and not be forced to.