

charles Schlosser

Making the state electric only will not work. The state is too rural and does not have the needed infrastructure to support going to all electric vehicles. Hybrids are a much better solution. They would allow drivers to go electric for short trips and and then use a back up internal combustion engine to generate electricity for the electric motors on longer trips.