

Robert Pettit

Electric vehicles are not practical in a rural state when traveling hundreds of miles and no charging stations available. The impact on the environment, (mining for limited materials like lithium, increased pollution from coal burning power plants, and disposing of battery packs) is greater than the emissions of internal combustion engines. Does Governor Grisham drive an ev? no she drives a big suv and flies in private jet. When she or another governor can easily get around our state in an ev or electric plane, I will support ev.