I am in strong support of the Advanced Clean Car II standards and the Advanced Clean Trucks standards, both of which will not only help the environment but will also bring some good jobs to New Mexico. Fully adopting the standards through 2035 will help lower electricity rates for everyone. And eventually everyone will also benefit from a healthier environment. Maybe most exciting is the impact there will be as a result of coordinating our usage to help deliver the energy we need. New Mexico must act this year (2023) to keep pace with what more and more states are doing.
