

Michael Lewitke

I happen to live on a narrow piece of property between two quarries. Diesel rock trucks go past our house, within twenty feet. They are loud, reek of raw diesel fumes, and kick up dust. My wife and I wonder how life would be if these trucks were clean and quiet. We'd love to find out!