

Thomas DeGroot

I was unable to view the document but I believe that EVs will be the way of the future. I understand that it will be a difficult transition due to higher cost of EVs, lack of charging station infrastructure, and lower availability. But a society cannot improve without change. Lowering emissions is a necessity for the longevity of the environment.