One of the reason I am against EV Vehicles is for one, they cannot withstand any cold weather. They are also very expensive. No matter what you do we still will have to use Fossil Fuels which we all know our politicians use jets to get when they need to travel, which is also another reason EV's are not good. You can't travel long distances without it taking days to get where you need to go. Leave it up to the consumer what they want. Don't force anything on the consumer.
