

Otha Jane Chandler

This is too water intensive and I have not heard that they are going to a closed loop which is possible but costs more. Power requirements will go up. The offset of construction jobs and possible future operational jobs is not a long term solution for our area. Look at what happened with Virgin Galactic, very few of the better jobs went to locals. Locals mostly got the few lower level jobs. The offset of additional utilities vs what we get is not acceptable. The retirement growth in our area has done nothing but raise our taxes to build new utilities and has gone a long way into pricing local people out of housing market. We already have too many people to acceptably support in the future. Let's not continue to bring people in when our resources are already stretched. These company are not going to help us , they will be looking at bottom line . I believe we would be foolish to believe anything they promise without very tight contracts.