I would suggest that ALL synthetic ingredients (ie: Delta 8, Spice, K2) be included in testing. I have attached a list of "common" synthetic cannabinoids that are currently known to be added to products that are not regulated. If these ingredients are added to products, it would be a direct risk to public safety. Adding labeling requirements and testing requirements for synthetic ingredients would ensure that the manufactured products are safe for consumption. There seems to be a lot of questionable products in the market. That can be very confusing to consumers.
