

Michael McKittrick

This legislation is needed to protect the lives and health of workers who work outside or indoors without cooling systems. Climate change is increasing the outdoor air temperatures in New Mexico and workers should have the right to be protected.