

Evan Bouchard

This rule regulation states what is already a common sense necessity for anyone living in the desert: Stay hydrated when at altitude and when exposed to the sun and heat.

The fact that it's not already legally required for workers is, quite frankly, embarrassing.

No one working outdoors in the heat of New Mexico should be without adequate water. Please pass this, take care of our workers!