

Jerry Harrell

This rule is just not workable for work outdoors or in. Restaurants, for example, have various temperatures in various areas of the kitchen. Employees routinely move from a higher temp area to a lower temp area. Monitoring and accurately reporting would be impossible. This rule is overbroad.