

John Wilson

Workers need to be protected from unsafe working conditions. It is obvious to some that safety gear is important. Not so obvious that heat is as dangerous as a collapsing trench, a falling wrench, a bare electrical wire. Heat is a safety risk. We should have strong regulations to prevent heat related injuries.