

Michael Lawler

Heat kills. Embrace empathy. Imagine your body reaching its limit, its inability to function, its internal processes shutting down. Standards allow a workman to work another day.