

Robin Gibson

We need to codify heat protection regulations so they're in place for all workers, especially as our summers get hotter every year. We've seen the federal administration roll back worker protections, so we need to make sure our state has them in place.