

Daisy Kates

I am having a difficult time comprehending why anyone would want to compromise the safety and health of workers who work in high heat conditions. Perhaps those who think it is unnecessary should give those jobs a try!!

Surely we can figure out how to protect and respect the conditions that workers endure, especially as the climate continues to heat up, especially in the Southwest.