I worked and ran construction business for over 50 years. This is so ludicrous as you could never control your business costs or the time to complete your work. Your personnel know when to take a break. They know when its to hot or cold. I've had to terminate my work when it's to hot, windy or cold. Period. If you've never had to do or experience outdoor work for a real job you should not have any say whatsoever about the subject.
