

Joe Cardillo

New Mexico is getting hotter and drier, and workers who are the backbone of our economy, who build our communities, deserve reasonable protections. I have done many kinds of work in my life, including landscaping & gardening, and over the last few years it has only gotten more dangerous and the risk of heat stroke and heat related illnesses is very real.

I am in favor of establishing these common sense regulations that ensure peoples lives and livelihoods are not put at risk.