

Laureen Pepersack

I experienced heat stroke while supervising students on a fire drill/evacuation training from having to stand out in the sun w/o protection - random drill scheduled. My doctor told me that I am now much more susceptible to getting heat stroke again. I retired from teaching. We must protect our workers' health - with the increasing heat and drought conditions more of us are susceptible. Do not allow shallow minded, profit motivated individuals/groups block this important measure. These shallow minded individuals/groups do not realize the ultimate cost to themselves when workers suffer. I suffered and my students suffered when the administration did not respect my health requirements. Thank you