

Sonja Kortsch

Both of my children have suffered heat related illnesses at school. My high school student in Albuquerque had to do outdoor exercise in 97+ temperatures. It resulted in having to call an ambulance for several students. My other child got heat stroke from being in a school portable that had a swamp cooler that couldn't cool "due to humidity". It was 90-93 degrees all day for days. He wasn't the only one in his class.