

Scott Brooks

This is just insanity, if this was done in the 1900s we still be riding horses and bicycles. For real hot days people could work during the cooler periods of the day. Also people need to replace their electrolytes and salt lost during perspiration.