

Tiffany Jones

Businesses don't need government to tell them how to manage their employees. Business knows that when they treat employees well, they do their jobs well, and the business prospers. We just need to let them alone.