

Thalia Papadakis

Man-made climate change is affecting the entire planet. We can expect to see extreme temperatures (both highs and lows), natural disasters, and an increase in climate migration. Outdoor workers are going to be especially vulnerable. I would like to see them be provided with the means to create heating/cooling stations, or to be compensated for the days they have missed due to the heat or cold.